Details of Harry Bassett's Defeat.

SARATOGA, August 2.—The chief event in the sports to-day was the three-mile race in which Harry Bassett and Wanderer [illegible] McDaniels entry was the favorite. Wanderer, however, found many backers. A good start was effected, Bassett [illegible] away first, Wanderer second, Hubbard third. At the half mile pole Wanderer was leading, Bassett a length behind, with Hubbard making a [illegible] ing race a dozen lengths in the rear. These positions were maintained for the first mile. Going up the back stretch Bassett quitted and Wanderer increased his lead at every stride, looking every inch a winner. At this period the backers of McDaniels' stable sought to hedge, and offered long odds that Wanderer would win. Hubbard now got in the race and passing Bassett rushed along at a tremendous pace, challenging Wanderer and taking the lead from him. Entering the home stretch Hubbard led by two lengths and won the race. The result of the race created general astonishment, as before the start McDaniels asked to withdraw Hubbard, stating that the horse was sick, but the judges declined to grant his request. McDaniels then gave out that he wanted merely to gallop Hubbard, and leave the race between Bassett and Wanderer.

NEW YORK, August 2.—In regard to the seizure by the Sheriff of two vessels belonging to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, President Bradbury says the attachment was either a mistake or a snap-matter arranged for the purpose of influencing matters on the street. The amount claimed was $120,000, to secure which bonds would be given to-day. President Bradbury states that ex-President Stockwell should have paid these taxes as he had funds for that purpose. The matter, however, would be investigated, and as bonds had been given the departure of vessels would not be interfered with.

The World has a double leaded editorial on the Democratic party and its allies. The true thing to do is to encourage other organizations, but resolutely to maintain Democratic ideas of political doctrine, for unless Democracy can be again made a living conviction in the public mind the reformed government will never be made more than skin deep."

HILLSBORO, August 2, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The Progressionist man seems to be laboring under a frightful hallucination. The handwriting on the wall that has no doubt been conjured up by a few political sorcerers who have evidently been manipulating for his especial benefit has caused him to deliver himself prematurely of an open letter to Judge Humphreys. So far as the proprietor of the above paper and the Judge are concerned we say, let them fight it out. And had not the writer [illegible] the backs of that letter [illegible] warning to Republicans it certainly would not have attracted the attention of any one who has the [illegible] of party [illegible] heart.

SITKA CORRESPONDENCE

SITKA, Alaska, [illegible]

My last letter [illegible] a short description of the place. The town is situated [illegible] the shape [illegible] that on the north-west [illegible] and [illegible] the principal object of attraction is the "Palace," [illegible] nearly square building, situated almost on the extremity of the point, on the [illegible]. The building is protected by a palisade around it, on which the Russians had placed a small battery of guns, now quite old compared with modern improvements. During the Russian occupation this was headquarters and also quarters for the Government officials. It is at present used mostly for quarters, one of the rooms, however, being devoted to the uses of the theater. [illegible] fronting on the main street is a large rectangular log building, used for barracks, the Custom House, [illegible] quarters, offices and stores, in one of which is the post office. On the left hand side of the street is the parade ground, which slopes gently from the northeast toward the west. It is in the form of a pentagon or irregular rectangle, having at one corner a large building now occupied as a warehouse. On the side opposite the street are the Commandant's headquarters, and on that facing the water quarters for the company officers, which last is a block of four very pretty cottages of one story and a half, having the appearance of being built by the Americans. [illegible] which has been [illegible] boarded and finished since our occupation. On the north-east corner, fronting on the street, is an old Russian house of one story and a half, which makes the complement of those tenanted by the [illegible] Uncle Sam. The bonded warehouse is a large two story log building situated immediately upon the wharf.

The town is laid out in a very peculiar fashion. The main street, after running straight a short distance (like an irregular cork screw) [illegible] first around the church, and then taking a [illegible] right angles [illegible] straight [illegible] a short space [illegible] the line of the shore. The church is a [illegible] built in the shape of a cross, with a belfry in front and steeple very much like those on our churches, only just at the base a [illegible] construction, the whole of the spire resembling a sharp-pointed English soda water bottle, the kind that can only lie on their side. This is surmounted by a Greek double cross, the upper of which, like ours, is horizontal and mounted on a perpendicular, while in the lower the cross bar cuts the plane of the horizontal at an angle of 45°, although its plane is perpendicular to that of the upright portion. Over the back part of the edifice rises a dome, over which is a short six sided tower, surmounted by a small dome and double cross. The whole town is divided by a high log stockade, protected with strong block houses at intervals and terminating in a small lake, into two parts, one of which, that on the left, is Indian town, that on the right Russian. The entrance to the former is through a large, strong wooden door, which is locked [illegible] at night and open only from 6 A. M. [illegible] summer. At the latter [illegible] M. to [illegible] obliged to leave the [illegible] hour all the Siwashes [illegible] American town, where many of [illegible] women and children are loafing, and retreat to their own quarters. All found trespassing after that time are locked up in the guard house for the night. One or two soldiers generally go around with fixed bayonets and drive them like so many sheep into the corral. Quite a number of the Russians live in large tenement houses which received their names from a party of [illegible] which once came ashore on a [illegible] from one of [illegible] men of war. The largest, two stories, is called "The Double-decker," and is arranged in the interior very much on the style of [illegible] hotels, with a large hall in the center and sleeping apartments, family rooms on each side. [illegible] The [illegible] have also [illegible] of two stories, built in similar fashion. They did not occupy [illegible] named "The Sloop of War," which is of one story, but this has now been appropriated [illegible] our army [illegible].

The Russians [illegible] parts of the main street, many of them having patches of garden in front, in which are cultivated a few vegetables. A little northwest of the officers' quarters is an old Russian church, situated on the summit of an abrupt mound in a commanding position, at one side of which is a graveyard. The edifice is not in use at present. There used to be in this vicinity a [illegible] garden, but now that the town has become less thriving than in former times it has been abandoned. The great beauty about the place is its magnificent scenery. Major Bell, in his graphic description of it, says that his first impressions reminded him very forcibly of the pictures in the geographies he studied at school representing the comparative heights of mountains. The bay is surrounded by them on three sides, while the fourth, toward the west, looks toward the open sea. Toward the east rises [illegible] with steep rugged sides, covered with trees and occasionally bare streaks, with a sharp pinnacle appearing to heaven, and not far from the summit [illegible] shoulder upon one side [illegible] range of peaks of every variety [illegible] the head of the bay another similar range [illegible]

The latest news from the mine [illegible] twenty [illegible] that it will average [illegible] $125 [illegible] straight along. Although [illegible] it is not very difficult [illegible] access for the water, and the great expense will be the cost of transportation to the nearest market, necessarily heavy on account of the distance.

A drunken affray occurred [illegible] in which a Russian was badly stabbed in the chest. Fortunately the knife did not penetrate more than through the skin, having glanced [illegible].

A small boy, an American, of about 11, struck his little brother a blow on the head with an axe, inflicting a large scalp wound. This was done in a fit of anger. The next day he struck another boy on the hand, breaking a finger. He afterwards boasted of both exploits. He is at present in the guard house.

Considering the amount of drunkenness among the inhabitants such cases are very rare.

As my letter is already of considerable length I will now close and bid you adieu until the next month brings [illegible] our [illegible]

SITKA.

A NEW TYPE-SETTING MACHINE

Type setting machines are devices which every newspaper proprietor and publisher is desirous of seeing perfected. A machine on a new principle has recently been brought before the public, styled Wescott's Type Making and Setting Machine. It casts and sets its type at the same instant, taking it as molten metal from a tank, and [illegible] type in the stick as if placed there by a compositor. The type is not thrown back into the cases or distributed in any manner, and this expense saved. It is simply re-melted. On one end of the machine is a tank heated by gas, containing the molten type metal. Parallel with the tank are two rows of steel frames, each containing the matrix of a letter. Running between these steel frames is a traveler. In front of the tank containing the molten type metal is a heavy mould. Connected with the steel frames containing the matrices by small levers is a key board, precisely like that of a piano, with the names of each letter marked on the keys. When the key is touched then the matrix is thrown [illegible] inches out of line, and the traveler then takes it to the mould in front of the tank containing the molten type metal.

The mould then closes on it, and at the same instant the pump in the tank throws a jet of molten type metal which strikes the matrix full in the face. The mould then opens and the traveller returns with the matrix ready for the next letter. While this is going on the type passes between the revolving cutters and, perfectly formed, is pushed on the composing stick exactly as if it had been placed there by the fingers of a printer. This action is repeated with succeeding letters according to copy, at the rate of forty letters or more a minute, according to the expertness of the operator.

The circular issued by the New York Type and Electrotype Company, 88 John street, New York, describing the invention, states that the machine saves the following items: The whole cost of new type, the whole cost of distributing type, and two thirds of the cost of composition. The machine can be arranged simply for making type by throwing out one lever, when it becomes self acting, and will make any designed letter all day, at the rate of eighty-nine [illegible]. One great advantage in a [illegible] that all old type and letters [illegible] over again in [illegible] machine of this kind [illegible] type metal can be used over [illegible] making new type. The regular price [illegible] machines is stated in the circular is [illegible], with a discount to purchasers of five machines and upward. If all that is claimed for this machine in the matter of time and economy is correct it will be very generally introduced, especially in country newspaper offices.

A BATHING BOY'S PERIL.—The New Orleans Times tells a singular story of the danger incurred by a boy who was attacked by a huge gar fish while bathing with some companions in the Old Basin Canal, near that city. It is as follows: They had been in the water but a few minutes when one of the boys, a lad about eleven years old, was attacked by a very large gar fish and came very near losing his life, first from drowning, and then from the effusion of blood, resulting from the wound inflicted by the teeth of the gar.

The fish is described by the lad as having been large indeed, and judging from the boldness of the attack and the power manifested in the struggle, there can be no doubt but that it must have been all the boy described it to be. The first intimation he had of the presence of the fish was seeing it dash at him. In an instant it caught him by the arm, and twice he was dragged underneath the water. Each time as he came to the surface he called to his companions to save him. The lacerated arm bled freely, and the water for a considerable distance around the scene of the struggle was crimsoned. Horrified at the sight, they were [illegible] almost to stupefaction, and it was some moments before any of the boys could make up their minds to go to his rescue. At last an elder brother of the lad went to his relief, and we are informed that it was with no little difficulty that he succeeded in wresting him from the jaws of the fish. The fish had bitten him on the left arm near the wrist, and the blood continued to flow with such force and rapidity that it was feared he would bleed to death before assistance could be had. An old lady, however, happened to be passing at that instant, and to stanch the flow of blood she tore strips from her dress and with them bound up the lad's arm. The question has been raised whether or not it was an alligator instead of a fish that attacked the boy. [illegible] but recently alligators of considerable size have been seen in the canal near the place where these boys were bathing.

On Thursday night last one Joseph Fitzgerald, of Central Falls, called upon his late brother's widow at her residence in that village and repeated an offer of marriage which she had several times refused during the past three months. On receiving the [illegible] answer he stepped up to her [illegible] a large butcher knife and attempted to plunge it into her breast. The lady is quite small and delicate, but [illegible] desperate resistance, and finally succeeded in obtaining possession of the knife. Her screams [illegible] who finally secured the assailant. Mrs. Fitz[illegible] was completely prostrated by the [illegible] with blood [illegible].

A [illegible] portion of the [illegible] company were [illegible] the wagon to run upon the [illegible] away, in which all the ladies [illegible] more or less injured, one of them, Miss Nannie [illegible], having a limb broken. None of the gentlemen were hurt.

The Pantagraph's Gardiner correspondent says that last week Capt. McAllep took down from Gardiner in the schooner's boat several hundred dollars worth of supplies to the men engaged in getting off the schooner Enterprise, which went ashore some time ago. He left the boat in the surf and went ashore for a team to haul the goods. A good dinner, such as can only be enjoyed on the beach, tempted him into forgetfulness of the boat. He reached the spot where he had left it only to see her sailing out gloriously over the bar, evidently on her way to Frisco. He had left the sail standing, so when the rollers came in it found her all ready. There was no other sail boat at hand and he was compelled to let the fugitive go.

THE TERRITORIES

The Cooke Brothers have established a banking house at Tacoma.

Wells, Fargo & Co. have opened an express office at Tacoma, with Robt. G. Hays as Agent.

The Olympia papers report that the mercury was ranging up among the nineties last week, which beats Portland very considerably.

Apples and peaches are getting ripe at Boise city. The former sell at 5 to 10 cents per pound.

The [illegible] reports new houses building in all parts of the country around about Steilacoom.

The mutineers of the ship Canada have been committed to jail at Port Townsend to await the November term of the District Court.

From the Olympia Transcript we learn that the country residence of Judge Dennison, near Tacoma, was totally consumed by fire on Wednesday night last. Everything pertaining to the building was destroyed, and much of the [illegible] fruit and shrubbery badly damaged. The workmen are already on the ground, engaged in removing the debris and preparing the foundation for a new building more extensive than the one destroyed.

The Olympia Transcript says: [illegible] just received by a friend from Kittitas valley [illegible] that an old Indian named [illegible] who had been missed for two weeks was found dead near the residence of Capt. J. W. Hamilton. The Indians accused [illegible] the murderer and were about to [illegible] him when the whites interfered [illegible] a strong guard [illegible] Fort Simcoe, there to be dealt with by the proper authorities.

[illegible]

[illegible] This will interfere with the prospects of the city [illegible] And [illegible] Ross has suspended.

[illegible] the manufacture of the platform, a stock of [illegible] whisky [illegible] would be [illegible] of numerous minor advantages the good people of that city expect to derive from having large bodies of troops quartered among them.

A gentleman connected with the survey of Tacoma furnishes the Olympia Tribune a general statement of the plan of the terminal city. The blocks are to be 580 by 300 feet, twelve lots each 50 by 120 to the block, one wide alley of 40 feet in each block, streets all 80 feet in width, and avenues 100. Some 600 acres only will be laid off and put in the market. About the center, surrounding a beautifully formed mound, will be a ten-acre park. A long and broad avenue from the water's edge into the country is in contemplation for the country trade and pleasure driving. A dock to deep water, with a front of 500 feet, will be constructed at once, and track laid upon it for the cars to go down to the ships. A track will also be laid down to the mill dock in the present town for the convenience of the railroad company in their building operations. The shops, round house, etc., will be put up on the Puyallup mud flat, two or three miles distant.

o the cisterns. What we want is a system that will allow us to have fire plugs at every corner, and that will make these available without engines—whether by the gravitation system, or the direct application of force from pumps, is of little consequence. The Holly system, or any system that would have enabled us to use the engines as a special and auxiliary means, and fought the flames from every side at the same time, and directly from the mains, would have saved half the property destroyed by this fire—enough to construct such works with distributing mains throughout the city.

Fourth—It is not the worst of effect our narrow streets that they give the city the appearance of being crowded and unhealthful, nor that they are inconvenient as thoroughfare for travel and commerce. They form but little protection against the spread of fires. The distance of sixty feet from a building enveloped in flames, is too near for firemen to stand and battle with the fire. The heat sets buildings on fire on the opposite side in a few seconds.

Some of these lessons we can heed. In one there are legal objections to any attempted reformation. But there ought to be the least possible delay in effecting such reformation in all those respects as would secure the city as far as human foresight can secure it. It is a short-sighted economy that only closes the stable doors after the horses are stolen; but when a part of them have been taken the owner should certainly consider himself warned to close the door against the next attempt.

It is an old but true saying that a man is known by the books he reads and the company he keeps. This saying is illustrative of the great sewing machine war, in which nearly all the second-class machines have played prominent parts, expending much ammunition and making forced marches attended with great loss. But our readers have not seen the name of the world renowned Grover & Baker Sewing Machine flourished before the people in the above connection, and this dignified reserve has established the popularity of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine, now and forever. It stands on its respectability and merits. These machines make the Elastic Stitch and Shuttle Stitch, and will be sold on installments of $10 per month. W. T. Shanahan, agent, 71 First street.

Judge Dunlevy, whom gossip assigns Lieut.-Colonel Fred Grant as a papa-in-law, was for seventeen years a Judge in Central Ohio, and has been very intimate with Robert C. Schenck. He is a wealthy man, and has recently made a large amount of money in real estate.

A Critical S[illegible]:

Toward the close of the warm season the long continued heat begins to tell upon body and mind. Both become exhausted, and we feel instinctively that nature, after fighting a gallant battle with a debilitating temperature is drooping at last and requires to be stimulated and reinforced. This, therefore, is a period of the year when a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is especially useful. The immediate effect of this unequaled vegetable restorative is to strengthen the stomach, sharpen the appetite, tone and regulate the bowels and give steadiness and vigor to the nerve. As a preventive of the endemic and epidemic complaints that prevail at this season, and as a remedy for indigestion, liver disturbances, nervous debility, constipation, languor, headaches, and all irregularities of the bowels, this pure and wholesome vegetable [illegible] tonic and alterative has no equal among [illegible] medicines.

The relaxing power of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is truly wonderful. Cases are already numerous where bent and stiffened limbs have been limbered and straightened by it. When used for this purpose, the part should be washed and rubbed thoroughly. Apply the liniment cold, and rub it in with the hand.

THE UNDERSIGNED BEG LEAVE TO EXPRESS our heartfelt thanks to those of our fellow citizens who so nobly aided in protecting our property from the great fire of the 2d inst. To the members of the Vancouver Fire Department, to Company No 4 of this city, to the many gentlemen who, against hope, in the face of smoke and flame, worked unceasingly about the mill, to those who took the disabled Engine No. 5, and, waist deep in the river, worked it for hours, to the ladies contributing refreshments, and to each and all, through whose united efforts under a kind providence, we owe the safety of our mill, we acknowledge a debt of the deepest gratitude. Insure against Loss by Fire in the

Phœnix of Hartford,

BECAUSE:

FIRST—IT HAS COMPLIED FULLY WITH THE Oregon State Law.
SECOND—Its contracts in Oregon are backed, under a re-insurance contract, by its own and the united assets of the Home Ins. Co. of New York and the North British and Mercantile Ins. Company of London, aggregating over $25,000,000 00, gold, offering the best security of any Fire Insurance Company or Association in the world.
THIRD—It can carry large risks, as its policies are re-insured by the above mentioned Companies, so that the PHŒNIX alone can carry the same line that all three companies would take separately.
FOURTH—It requires but one set of proofs in case of loss, thus giving the security of three Companies without the trouble of dealing with separate Corporations.
All these solid merits, viz: capacity to carry the largest risks, the amplest possible security, the simplest adjustment in case of loss, and the prompt and equitable payment of all just claims.
The Phœnix Insurance Company solicits your Patronage.

What we want

is a system that will allow us to have fire plugs at every corner and that will make these available without engines—whether by the gravitation system or the direct application of force from pumps is of little consequence. The Holly system or any system that would have enabled us to use the engines as a special and auxiliary means, and fight the flames from every side at the same time and directly from the mains would have saved half the property destroyed by this fire—enough to construct such works with distributing mains throughout the city.

Fourth—It is not the worst of effect our narrow streets that they give the city the appearance of being crowded and unhealthful nor that they are inconvenient as thoroughfare for travel and commerce. They form but little protection against the spread of fires. The distance of sixty feet from a building enveloped in flames is too near for firemen to stand and battle with the fire. The heat sets buildings on fire on the opposite side in a few seconds.

Some of these lessons we can heed. In one there are legal objections to any attempted reformation. But there ought to be the least possible delay in effecting such reformation in all those respects as would secure the city as far as human foresight can secure it. It is an old but true saying that a man is known by the books he reads and the company he keeps. This saying is illustrative of the great sewing machine war in which nearly all the second-class machines have played prominent parts, expending much ammunition and making forced marches attended with great loss. But our readers have not seen the name of the world renowned Grover & Baker Sewing Machine flourished before the people in the above connection and this dignified reserve has established the popularity of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine, now and forever. It stands on its respectability and merits. These machines make the Elastic Stitch and Shuttle Stitch, and will be sold on installments of $10 per month. W T Shanahan agent 71 First street.

A Critical Season.

Toward the close of the warm season the long continued heat begins to tell upon body and mind. Both become exhausted and we feel instinctively that nature, after fighting a gallant battle with a debilitating temperature is drooping at last and requires to be stimulated and reinforced. This therefore, is a period of the year when a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is especially useful. The immediate effect of this unequaled vegetable restorative is to strengthen the stomach sharpen the appetite tone and regulate the bowels and give steadiness and vigor to the nerve. As a preventive of the endemic and epidemic complaints that prevail at this season and as a remedy for indigestion liver disturbances, nervous debility constipation languor headaches and all irregularities of the bowels, this pure and wholesome vegetable tonic and alterative has no equal among medicines.

Insure against Loss by Fire in the
Phœnix of Hartford,
BECAUSE:

FIRST—IT HAS COMPLIED FULLY WITH THE new State Law

SECOND—Its contracts in Oregon are backed under a re-insurance contract by its own and the united assets of the Home Ins Co of New York and the North British and Mercantile Ins Company of London aggregating over $21,000,000 00 gold offering the best security of any Fire Insurance Company or Association in the world.

THIRD—It can carry large lines as its policies are re-insured by the above named companies so that the PHŒNIX alone can carry the same line that all three companies would take separately.

FOURTH—It requires but one set of proofs in case of loss, thus giving the security of three companies without the trouble of dealing with separate companies.

Welch & Morgan, saddlers, Front, second door north of Yamhill.

Persons who have located in new places will please leave their present address at this office.

A THOUSAND THANKS.—The men who worked so nobly and bravely last Saturday are placed under the greatest obligations to a number of ladies who did less dangerous but equally essential duty in furnishing coffee, crackers, sandwiches, etc., to those who were fighting the fire. Such examples were numerous and their cheer and cheering words will long be remembered. We would mention names, but when all did so well it would be wrong to compare. Ladies, we thank you all in the name and on behalf of the men of Portland.

LAUNDRIES BURNT.—As a large number of laundries owned by Chinese were burned and others moved, it would be well if the police and others who can do so would notify those Chinese to fix upon some place where clothing left with them before the fire should be taken and public notice be given, so that such articles as were saved can be secured by the owners.

TO REBUILD.—J S Keller will build at once on the spot where his late butcher shop stood. Heuschuch & Schmidt will also build, and others no doubt will commence building on the burnt district. All whose intentions are in that direction will confer a favor by giving us immediate notice of the fact.

SECOND TIME.—The following persons, as far as we could learn, burnt out last Saturday were sufferers by the December fire: Oliver Dennie, photographer; Dr J G Glenn, dentist; M Marks, shoemaker; Marquam & Beal, attorneys; M Moskowitz, real estate dealer; and I Bloom, dealer in clothing.

A GOOD IDEA.—It has been suggested that all persons knowing themselves indebted to those burned out should come forward at once and liquidate. This will be [illegible] up fast dues and will afford great help to the sufferers. Don't delay.

HELP OFFERED.—Rev T L Eliot received yesterday a dispatch from St Louis, Mo., asking if help was required. A collection for the relief of sufferers was taken up in the Unitarian Church Sunday morning, which netted a neat sum.

GIVE US NOTICE.—Our subscribers who resided in the burnt district will please inform us of their present location and they will be promptly served.

THE BURNT DISTRICT TO BE REBUILT AT ONCE.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A majority of the owners of the burnt district have decided to rebuild as soon as possible to do so. It is proposed to widen the streets from 60 feet to 80 feet. That will be 10 feet off each side. This will increase the distance from house to house on either side of the street and prevent the spread of fire in the event of one. It will beautify and greatly improve that part of the city and make it the most attractive, with this increased distance between the structures on either side of the street. [illegible] the Trelucks might be removed (not being absolutely necessary) and no more wooden houses to be erected in the burnt district [illegible].

Another Great Conflagration!

The City Asleep and in Flames!

Astonishing Progress of the Fire!

Twenty Blocks in Ashes!

Immense Destruction of Property!

People Rendered Homeless!

INCENDIARISM!

FIGHTING AGAINST FATE!

Saturday, August 2d, is a day long to be remembered in the annals of Portland as the occasion of the most disastrous conflagration that has visited the Pacific coast since the dreadful fire of 1854 in Sacramento, California. The awful holocaust of December last was reckoned a terrible calamity, but beside this last dire disaster it sinks to utter nothingness. Then men stood aghast at the suddenness of the blow, but recovering from that paralysis began with quick energy to restore the waste places. The work of reconstruction had but fairly commenced. There were the necessary delays in rebuilding portions of the burnt district, and to this single circumstance is due the preservation of six millions of property and the salvation of our entire city. We speak advisedly. Had block 77 at the foot of Alder street—in which the December fire first started—been occupied by buildings of any description whatsoever all Portland would be in ashes to-day. So it is that a great misfortune supplemented by the feebleness of humanity was made to subserve a most beneficent end.

FIRE! FIRE!! FIRE!!!

The cry first came from officer Mercer, who was returning from his watch to report at police headquarters. The hour was 4:20 A M, when all the city was asleep. Fire! Fire! Fire!!! The alarm ran along the deserted morning street, startling the few that were abroad at that early hour, and almost instantly the wild alarm broke from a score of throats, clanged from the brazen lips of the bells and woke the silence of the calm August morning with a shuddering horror. Fire! Fire!! Fire!!! And lo! from the bosom of the city a slender spire of flame, momentarily growing larger. The warning bells seemed instinct with the awful peril, and from every direction crowds of half-dressed resolute men came thronging to grapple with the fire-demon. Higher and higher shot the slender spire of flame, and by its side rose a dense column of black smoke from the fateful magazine of oils and varnishes below. For a moment that slender tongue of flame hung quivering like a blackened scimeter above the doomed building, and then onward and downward it rushed with an appalling roar that was fearful to the ear. Aroused by the first cry of warning, the salesman of Messrs Hurgren & Shindler sprang from his bed in the rear of the salesroom and ran to the front of the building. But he was too late to make any explorations inside and was quickly driven to the street by the advancing flames.

But such was the rapidity of the spread of the fire as it reached the stable in the rear of the building when it was first kindled that but few minutes elapsed before the entire north half of the block was a mass of flames which leapt high in the air and shooting in all directions caught the buildings used as a harness maker's shop, a livery stable and the

The flames from the livery stable just in the rear soon communicated to the Patton House adjoining, and by this time the wind blew quite a stiff breeze from the northwest, carrying the flames across Front street. Such was the rapidity with which they spread over and through the Metropolis Hotel that it was impossible to save even a small portion of the contents. Those who witnessed the spread of the fire through this building all say that the rapidity with which the large three story building [illegible] was licked up by the devouring element was never surpassed. Within eight minutes from the time the fiery tongues from the other side of the street were [illegible] [illegible] than one-fourth of [illegible] [illegible] blazing ruin.

Before this time all the fire [illegible] of the city were actively at work [illegible] with each other in the noble fight against the on-coming and outreaching flames from both buildings [illegible]

The gallant firemen and [illegible] bravely fought the advancing flames as they rolled onward toward the two structures, for upon the result of their effort to save these seemed to depend the fate of a vast portion of the city and especially the

ST. CHARLES HOTEL

The most magnificent structure on the north-west Pacific coast and the blocks of buildings adjoining on the north and west. But in vain were nearly all the appliances brought to bear and the two buildings were soon kindled and the flames surged madly under, over and through them both, flinging their thousand arms on every side and high into the heavens. The heat was intense—so intense that the large French plate windows of the St Charles snapped and cracked at intervals, until it seemed impossible to preserve that costly edifice. There were crowds of firemen and willing helpers on the Mansard roof of the St Charles, constantly engaged in drenching the protecting blankets, and from every quarter on the streets below arose shouts of cheer from those who were from necessity merely spectators. The most eventful struggle of the day was made just here. It was to prevent the passage of the fire across the street to the St Charles Hotel. Capital No 1 of Salem was playing into Willamette No 1 from the river at Carter's wharf. For a moment the brakes were stopped, a rope was lowered from the roof of the St Charles and to this the hose was attached and drawn up. The delay in the operations of the machines was but momentary, and when they were resumed a stream of water was sent up to the brave boys from Salem. And there, in the hot breath of the simoom that swept upward from that raging sea of flame just across the narrow street, that mere handful of courageous hosemen met and baffled the subtle foe. While we gladly ascribe to these noble men the highest meed of praise for their gallant conduct, we would not omit to mention the names of Braydon, Herren, Phillips, Brackett, Piper, Ferry and others, who vied with each other in deeds of personal bravery and daring. We saw Brackett leaning over the dizzy height of the Mansard roof to grasp that precious nozzle, and when at last, after infinite toil, it was drawn to the summit, there rose a cheer so tremulous with hope against the fearful chances that the hardy heroes took fresh courage and worked like Trojans until the cry went up

IT FALLS! WE ARE SAVED

And looking over into that fiery, gilt-edged hell we saw a gigantic body of fire rising so slowly and with such awful strength that it seemed some Vulcan striving to burn Beanlander's flood this dying fiend lapping Walhalla with his million tongues of fire! For an instant it stood erect like the fervid Noon instinct with a thousand suns, trembled for a moment while all around the air shimmered and shivered like a sensitive thing, and then launched outward, an avalanche of beaten devils baffled of their prey! Thus fell the Kellogg House, and with its fall burst forth the involuntary Hurrah! It falls—we're saved! Just then we heard a sharp cry from the wharf below, toward which the glowing ruins of the huge hotel had been hurled. It came from the brave boys of Columbian No 3, who were stationed on the very fringe of the [illegible] at the southern extremity of Carter's wharf, and just as near the foot of Morrison street as hardy manhood could go and live. There they had worked in water almost knee-deep, their hose stretching to the front of the St Charles and doing excellent service. Hastening in the direction whence came this note of alarm we heard a second cry

OUR ENGINE IS BURNING! HELP! HELP!

As moved by one impulse the great crowd of lookers-on rushed down to the rescue, but many a man halted ere he had gone a stone's throw and shrunk back from the crooked barbs of flame. But there were some who never faltered. Passing on to Carter's wharf we found Columbian No 3 wrapped up in smoking bands of carpet and blankets, and crouching before the outward sweep of the flames. Her brave boys stood guard over her nor could they be driven away. From the roof of Carter's wharf a stream was playing upon them, while one or two of the boys were rummaging the nooks and dark corners of the wharf for fugitive Chinamen. A score or more of these latter were captured, and it was mirth provoking to witness the grimaces with which they followed their bell-wether, who had yielded to Sweeney's wild objurgations. Most of them took off their sandals (as did the prophet of old) but not with reverence, perhaps. Many had rolled their capacious trousers up to their knees, and though they danced and jabbered as the hot wind scorched them they didn't seem to have sense enough to protect their bare limbs. And there they stood cowering between the two elements, glancing appealingly and with contracted eyebrows at the men who were drenching them from above. However much may be claimed for Ah Sin on the ground of personal daring, it cannot be said that he is a fireman.

Gradually the fire's great gust grew fainter and so work was partially suspended [illegible] street. People generally felt that the [illegible] part of the city was now [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] that the terrible calamity of last winter suddenly assumed the semblance of a [illegible] and many [illegible] thanked God for the few feet of vacant ground that intervened between the Kellogg House and the American Exchange. But [illegible] the efforts of the Department that [illegible] checked and the [illegible] the block rendered unnecessary. Thus ended the battle at the northern limit of the conflagration. There was one supreme moment of [illegible]—the last block was in ashes and [illegible] with grateful hearts to which the [illegible] fight was raging in the southern portion of the city among the cottages of the poor and the elegant mansions of the rich.

From the Franklin Market on the corner of Taylor and First streets the fire raced quickly to the saloon on the north side of Taylor and ran along the row of tenement buildings occupied mostly by Chinese toward the [illegible] sped on northward along the west side of First street toward the costlier structures of brick occupied by Messrs [illegible] [illegible] Silver [illegible] and [illegible] Salmon. It swept through the produce and [illegible] of Cohn & [illegible] then [illegible] corner of Taylor and Front in the [illegible] Walter Moffett, J A Strowbridge, Dr Weatherford [illegible] the most strenuous efforts were [illegible] all these brick [illegible] The terrible heat permeated their walls [illegible] crept in at the windows [illegible] [illegible] fire walls and [illegible] little of the large stocks had been removed [illegible] like that in the crater of a volcano [illegible] warmed its way among the [illegible] costly goods inside of most of them. Here for the first time in the tier of blocks were the flames baffled and checked. Several [illegible] at the same time from these [illegible] the roofs. Though the buildings were left totally ruined [illegible] [illegible] Yamhill street to the hardware store of Northrup & Thompson and the wooden building on the north side.

[illegible] THE [illegible]

Of the starting point of the fire the flames ran with a fearful velocity, sweeping in their course every vestige of the improvements between Salmon street and Jefferson and Second and the river, and from Jefferson to Clay between First and the river, except four small dwellings.

From the Multnomah Boarding House there was soon communicated a brand that touched and kindled the adjoining buildings on the west end and to the south. The three dwellings and store rooms owned by F M Arnold, then the dwelling of Mr Smith of Smith Bros in the rear of their foundry, which was on fire at the same time, the four dwellings belonging to Captain Ainsworth and the two large two story frame buildings belonging to John P Walker and occupied by Messrs Hachency & Stennick and [illegible] Sinsheimer. No power within human reach could now have prevented the destruction of the buildings on the next block, and soon the large frame building owned by J Semple, on the southwest corner of Main and First streets, was quickly followed by two small houses in its rear, ice works and dwellings on Second, east side, two saloons, Love's Hotel and McGinn & Hill's bakery on the west side of First.

Across Madison street the flames swept to the meat market and four new dwellings owned by J S Keller on the block upon which was situated the fine new engine house of Protection Engine Co No 4. The several dwelling houses, two stores and a lodging house on this block were soon in ruins and it was found to be impossible to save Protection Company's house. Some of the boys rushing through the flames and smoke seized the bell rope and from that tower her

BELL TOLLED

The calamitous tidings of the destruction of this fine piece of property, until the destroying power cut the rope and its tongue was silenced by the flames. Not dismayed by their loss the gallant boys went on with their noble work, though they had been thus bereft of their steamer's home.

Owing to some of the buildings on the north side of Jefferson being timely pulled down and the dense foliage of the trees around the dwellings of Messrs Price and Mountains, the flames in this tier of blocks was here stayed.

But along the tiers from the river to First street the flames swept on two blocks further south, taking everything in their course to Clay street except one dwelling on the north east corner of First and Columbia and three small houses on the west side of the block lying between Columbia and Clay and Front and First, and one dwelling between Front and the river. Within this large area were the large steam flouring mill of G W Vaughn, the steam saw mill of Smith & Bosser, the cabinet shop of W F Wilcox, Jones' coffee and spice mills, Moffett's wharf and brick buildings, Sykes' brewery, several hotels, saloons and restaurants, and a great number of buildings of less pretensions, and in the extreme southern limits of the burnt district the splendid sash and door factory and planing mills of John P Walker. All that could be done with the means at hand was done to save this building, and for a while it seemed as if it were possible to prevent it from sharing the fate of its predecessor, which succumbed to the flames in July 1866. But now, as then, the heroic efforts of hundreds of willing hands were vain, as the wind carried the sheets of flame on the roof and in the pile of lumber around the building, once on fire, was soon wrapped around and around with a hundred red arms of flame and was quickly a heap of ruins.

Around the steam saw mill of Smith Bros & Co at the foot of Clay street

A [illegible] OF FIRE

Fell threatening it with destruction, but by the most extraordinary exertions of the owners and employes and helping friends it was saved, though it caught in more than a hundred places.

One small dwelling and stable on the south side of Clay street caught on fire from the cinders blown on them from Walker's sash factory, and with their destruction the raging fiend was stayed, having totally consumed every improvement on [illegible] entire blocks and much of those on three others. Nearly a million two hundred thousand dollars worth of property has thus in one half day been annihilated, and our city is shocked by the calamity. Much of this enormous loss fell on a class of our citizens who are but poorly able to bear it and who will feel its effect for years to come. Linked together in dark memories of blighted hopes and ruined fortunes, the terrible days of December 22, 1872, and August 2, 1873, will stand on the pages of Portland's history as the blackest in her annals, and Heaven grant that a recurrence of their calamities may not befall her in the years to come.

COMFORT FOR THE HOMELESS

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of ... and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco where his old patients and ... requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor ... in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at the pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, &c., attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies; see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who visit all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make inquiry or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz. low countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania, and frequent insanity. If ... be not obtained ... apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific method of treating this disease, which never fails of affecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin in registered letter through the Postoffice, or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR J F GIBBON 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1 957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN. jy6d4p
